HELLO WELCOME

We are three Austrian students who want to combine our knowledge of information design and our reference to urbanism as Generation Z, and therefore contribute to achieve SDG 11.

There are already a lot of projects that aim to strengthen the community. No matter how big or small they are, they all have one goal: to make the community a little more colourful. We collect creative projects that are more than places to have fun. They are places of encounter and diversity. People from different generations, backgrounds and cultures come together. We want to give inspiration for creative joint projects that aim for better communication and integration within a community.
